1995-96 ATLANTA HAWKS SEASON PROSPECTUS

By Lenny Wilkens

As we look towards the start of the upcoming season, we take pride in what we accomplished last year despite significant changes to our roster. We believe those changes as well as the selections we made during the Draft will continue to strengthen our organization for the future.

Of the four teams involved with early-season transactions, the Hawks were the only team to post a winning record (at 42-40) and make it to the playoffs. It took time for the new players -- a total of eight new faces -- to adjust to their new surroundings and teammates, but to their credit showed professionalism and dedication that bodes well for us.

Obtaining Steve Smith and Grant Long from Miami (for Kevin Willis) was crucial towards our steps of improving our franchise. It not only gives us two classy individuals who are equally talented on the floor, but they brought an infusion of youth to the roster. With a year of our system under their belts, they should provide more leadership and direction to benefit us.

Smith (16.3 ppg, 3.4 apg in 1994-95) and Mookie Blaylock give us a quality backcourt combination we've lacked in Atlanta for several years, and the two of them should only get better. Blaylock tallied a career-high 17.2 points last year and also led us in assists (7.7 apg), in addition to his tenacious defensive play which resulted in his second NBA All-Defensive first team honor (second in the NBA in steals at 2.5).

We needed to improve our backup point guard position and we feel we did just that by acquiring Spud Webb from Sacramento. Spud has spent time as both a starter and backup over his career and I think his return to the Hawks will prove beneficial.

Craig Ehlo battled nagging knee injuries all season, and while his production dipped for the first time in several years, the competitive nature of Ehlo gives us every indication he'll bounce back.

At the forward position, we added 6-9 power forward Alan Henderson with the 16th pick in the Draft. An intelligent and highly-skilled talent, Henderson has tremendous heart and determination which he displayed after returning from a serious knee injury at Indiana to become the school's fifth all-time leading scorer and all-time leader in rebounds and blocked shots.

He will join Grant Long, Ken Norman and Stacey Augmon along the frontline, as we continue to improve that area. There is not a harder-working player on our team than Long, who also showed an ability to deliver offensively (11.6 ppg). Augmon (13.9 ppg, 4.8 rpg, .453 FGs) and Norman (12.7 ppg, 4.9 rpg, .453 FGs) produced similar numbers and it is important for them to become more assertive at both ends of the floor.

I was pleased with the progression shown by center Andrew Lang. Not only was he our only player to play in all 82 games, but his offensive efforts resulted in a career year in points (9.7 ppg) and free throw percentage (.809). Lang's shot blocking ability has helped us a great deal and we are expecting continued good things from him.

We are making strides towards future success in Atlanta as we remain competitive in the always-tough Central Division, and as we stay focused on the goal of reaching the NBA championship.

Seconds after win no. 939, Wilkens is doused with confetti as he lights up a victory cigar.

* Lenny Wilkens became the NBA's all-time winningest coach on 1/6/94, when Atlanta defeated the Washington Bullets, 112-90 ... Wilkens coached his way into the playoffs for the 13th time in his career, and his fourth consecutive season ... He was also named head coach of the 1996 U.S. Olympic Basketball Team on 4/24/95.

* The Hawks reached the playoffs for the third straight season and posted a +.500 mark for the third consecutive time ... Atlanta is 142-104 (.577) over that span ... Their 18 road wins were the fourth most in the Eastern Conference and matched the total of Conference champion Orlando.

* Atlanta set 16 season team records, including nine on the defensive end ...

Among those defensive records were: opponents' fewest field goals made (3001) and attempted (6485), fewest free throws attempted (1919), fewest offensive rebounds (1051), fewest assists (1733), fewest disqualifications (12), fewest blocked shots (320), fewest total points (7816) and fewest points per game (95.3) ... The Hawks' offensive record lows included fewest field goals made (2986) and attempted (6680), fewest free throws made (1410) and attempted (1948), fewest offensive rebounds (1104), fewest total points (7921) and fewest points per game (96.6).

* Defense was the name of the game again as the Hawks' ranked third in the NBA, allowing just 95.3 points per game ... Atlanta's 738 steals was good for sixth in the league, while their 1359 turnovers forced placed them sixth also.

* After a 22-26 (.458) first half of the season, Atlanta went 20-14 (.588) the remainder of the way, including 11-4 (.733) at The Omni after the break ... The Hawks are now 26-7 (.788) at home after the All-Star break the last two seasons ... Atlanta started 0-4 for the second straight season ... Two seasons ago, they climbed back to the .500 mark on December 11 (5-4) ... Last season, they didn't reach .500 until March 10 (30-30).

* The backcourt tandem of Mookie Blaylock and Steve Smith had their best month of the year in February, and as a result the Hawks posted an 8-4 (.667) record ... Blaylock averaged 20.5 points (246), 8.0 assists (96), and 2.9 steals (35), in addition to hitting .503 FGs (89-177) and .419 3FGs (39-93) ... Smith excelled in February as well, scoring 20.1 points (241) on .494 FGs (85-172) and .452 3FGs (33-73) ... Combining their totals, they accounted for 40.6 ppg (487) and 10.0 assists (120), shooting .499 FGs (174-349) and .433 3FGs (72-166).

Mookie Blaylock improved his scoring average for the second straight season.

* With 555 three-point attempts last season, Blaylock posted the third-highest number of attempts in a single season in NBA history ... Following are the top six totals in history:

- 1) John Starks (611, 1994-95)
- 2) Michael Adams (564, 1990-91)
- 3) MOOKIE BLAYLOCK (555, 1994-95)
- 4) Dan Majerle (548, 1994-95)
- 5) Vernon Maxwell (510, 1990-91)
- 6) Dan Majerle (507, 1993-94)

* When Steve Smith played well last season, the Hawks usually won ... When he scored 20 or more points, Atlanta was 16-4 (.800) ... When he hit 3 or more three-pointers, the Hawks were 15-6 (.714) ... When he and Mookie Blaylock scored in double figures, the team's mark was 34-23 (.596) ... When the two of them scored at least 20 points, that mark was 6-0.

* Smith also had a strong season from the free throw line ... He had a streak of 42 consecutive free throws made before misfiring on 2/21 against Chicago ... Earlier in the season, he hit 28 in a row before missing at Indiana (12/14) ... He also made his last 192-of-218 (.881) free throws on the campaign.

* With his fourth quarter steal vs. Miami on March 22, Mookie Blaylock became the fourth fastest player in NBA history to reach 1,000 career steals ... He attained the mark in 421 games ... Here's a look at the seven fastest to reach 1,000 since steals have been kept as a statistic (1973-74 season):

- 1) Alvin Robertson (351 games)
- 2) Michael Jordan (362 games)
- 3) Maurice Cheeks (411 games)
- 4) MOOKIE BLAYLOCK (421 games)
- 5) John Stockton (426 games)
- 6) Isiah Thomas (429 games)

The NBA, its teams and players share a commitment to supporting programs dedicated to improving the quality of life for all people. For years, the NBA has created and implemented programs league-wide to address important social issues, with special emphasis on helping young people. This year's youth-based education programs will include: the NBA Stay in School program, created to encourage students to graduate from high school through school visits by NBA players and coaches; and conflict resolution workshops designed to train teachers and educate students in methods to resolve conflict without resorting to violence. Public service announcements and educational materials will also focus on anti-violence/conflict resolution message.

The NBA continues its support of CARE, the National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse and Special Olympics through television and radio public service announcements and other awareness-building efforts. The NBA also creates PSAs in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and Black History Month each year.

In addition, the NBA's 29 teams are making a difference, across the United States and Canada, through active involvement in a multitude of outreach efforts pertinent to the needs of their respective communities.

ATLANTA HAWKS FOUNDATION (founded in 1987)

The Atlanta Hawks were one of the first professional sports organizations to establish a foundation. Since its inception in 1987, the Atlanta Hawks Foundation has worked with hundreds of community organizations throughout metropolitan Atlanta, providing them with over one million dollars in donations and in-kind services (tickets, merchandise, player appearances, etc.). The Hawks recognize the importance of giving back to the community in which they work and play, demonstrating good sportsmanship both on and off the court.

The mission is: The Atlanta Hawks Foundation is dedicated to the betterment of Atlanta's youth, to enhance their quality of life and encourage them to reach attainable goals. The Hawks have numerous community programs from school-based programs and hospital visits to clinics, public service announcements and fundraisers. Although the programs are diverse, there is one uniting theme -- giving back to the community.

ATLANTA HAWKS FOUNDATION

ATLANTA HAWKS/NBA STAY IN SCHOOL PROGRAM

In 1989, the NBA created the Stay in School program to address the critical issue of high school dropouts. The program uses NBA players and retired players to urge young people to stay in school and complete their high school education.

Locally, over 40,000 middle school students each year participate in the Atlanta Hawks Stay in School Program. Previous sponsors of the program are Avia Athletic Footwear, MARTA, Nabisco, Oscar Mayer, Salem Sportswear, U.S. Army and Winn Dixie. The program includes: School assemblies where players speak to students about the importance of staying in school; An annual essay contest allowing kids to suggest solutions to social problems; Ticket and merchandise incentives for students that have demonstrated improvement in the three A's (attitude, attendance, and achievement); and an annual spring JAMBoree celebration for most-improved students.

The program is implemented in conjunction with the following school districts: Atlanta City Schools, Marietta, Clayton, Cobb, Decatur, DeKalb, Fayette, Douglas, Fulton, Gwinnett, and Rockdale.

"I LIKE ME BECAUSE I'M DRUG FREE"

Atlanta's elementary school students learn about drug prevention through Harry the Hawks' "I Like Me Because I'm Drug Free" education program. Sponsored by Champion, Harry the Hawk presents his drug free message to over 250 school in the Atlanta area throughout the year. There are many alternatives to using drugs and in his performance, Harry the Hawk expertly presents his three-point play to leading a drug-free life. His fun-filled and entertaining three-point drug prevention message -- education, recreation, and physical fitness -- provides students with the tools to stay drug free.

COMMUNITY PARTNERS

To further its mission to help Atlanta's children reach for excellence, the Atlanta Hawks Foundation recently established its Community Partners Program. This program receives applications each August and selects three community organizations (partners) per season whose goals match the Foundations' mission. These partners are the primary recipients of in-kind and monetary support from the Foundation with both the partners and the Foundation benefiting from the increased community awareness. Previous partners have included the Egleston Children's Hospital, the Georgia Center for Children and the Shepard Spinal Center.

HOME TEAM

The team tips off each season with an inner-city house renovation. Coaches, players and front office staff work side-by-side to paint, roof and landscape. During the 1995-96 season the Hawks and Fannie Mae have formed the "Home Team." The "Home Team" will educate potential homeowners about how to get the house they desire and work in the community to rebuild homes. Hawks players and staff, working in conjunction with Fannie Mae and the Historic District Development Corporation, will renovate a house in the historic Martin Luther King, Jr. District. The "Home Team" is a partnership dedicated to making an impact in the community and helping individuals in the Atlanta community attain the American Dream -- owning their own home.

ATLANTA HAWKS COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

AIDS AWARENESS

In conjunction with the World AIDS Day December 1, 1995, the Atlanta Hawks will host "Timeout for Awareness." This program is designed to increase awareness of the issues surrounding AIDS along with raising money to support local Atlanta AIDS organizations.

SUCCESS SEMINARS

Throughout the school year, Hawks General Manager Pete Babcock, with the support of local high-profile individuals, conducts Success Seminars at Atlanta high schools. Designed to encourage students to set goals and work hard to achieve them, the program features candid discussion by each of the panelists talking about their personal and professional successes and failures.

PLAYER CORNERS

Annually, players purchase blocks of tickets which are donated to deserving groups. In addition to getting seats to the game, the children also receive a player's t-shirt. Many children's organizations throughout Atlanta have benefited from the players' support of this program.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS CLINIC

Annually the Hawks conduct a clinic for the Georgia Special Olympics basketball teams' athletes and coaches. Hawks players and coaches lead clinics, skill drills and participate in 5-on-5 games with Special Olympians.

FUNDRAISERS

To raise money to support all of these community programs, the Atlanta Hawks Foundation hosts two fundraisers -- a spring black-tie Foundation Dinner and the Lenny Wilkens Golf and Tennis Classic in the fall. Celebrities from the sports and entertainment worlds unite to make these events a success.

THE LADY HAWKS

The Lady Hawks Wives Association participates in a variety of community activities. From working with the Hawks adopted school to delivering toys and gifts at the holidays, the wives have made a significant contribution to the Atlanta community.

ATLANTA HAWKS AVIA DANCE TEAM

For over six seasons, the Atlanta Hawks Avia Dance team has been performing dynamic routines to energize the Omni crowd. Led by choreographer Jimmy Locust, whose credits include work with Janet Jackson, Paula Abdul, Billy Idol and most recently a performance with Michael Jackson at the 1995 MTV awards, the team's repertoire varies from hip hop and rhythm and blues to Broadway musicals and classical favorites.

The Dance team's activities don't stop with choreographed dance routines. They serve as ambassadors to the community, supporting the community affairs outreach efforts of the Hawks organization. From hosting "Stay in School" or "I Like Me Because I'm Drug Free" school assemblies and visiting hospitalized children to working with local charities including the Georgia Special Olympics, the Atlanta Hawks Avia Dance team gives back to the community, serving as role models for children throughout Atlanta.

The Atlanta Hawks Avia Dance team is available for paid appearances. If you are interested, please contact the Atlanta Hawks marketing department at 827-3800.

FRONT OFFICE

R.E. (TED) TURNER OWNER, ATLANTA HAWKS, LTD.

R.E. (Ted) Turner III, President and Chairman of the Board of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. (TBS), the parent company of the Atlanta Hawks, is well known for innovation and foresight in the cable television industry. Under his leadership, Turner Broadcasting has grown into the leading supplier of entertainment and news programming for the basic cable television industry in the United States and a major distributor of programming to broadcasters throughout the world.

In addition to the Hawks, major subsidiaries of TBS include: TBS SuperStation, Turner Network Television (TNT), Cable News Network (CNN), Headline News, CNN International, SportSouth, Turner Program Services, Turner Entertainment Company, Turner Home Entertainment, TNT Latin America, Turner International, Turner Publishing, World Championship Wrestling, Major League Baseball's Atlanta Braves, Hanna-Barbera, Inc., the Cartoon Network, Cartoon Network Latin America, TNT and Cartoon Network (Europe), Turner Classic Movies, TNT & Cartoon Network in Asia Pacific, CNN Airport Network, Castle Rock Entertainment, New Line Cinema and Turner Pictures.

Foreseeing the potential of satellite and cable technology over 20 years ago, Turner forged a new frontier in the television industry. He transformed a small UHF television station in Atlanta into the world's first "superstation" by beaming the station's signal via satellite to cable systems across the U.S.

Turner became owner of the Braves on January 14, 1976, and one year later (January 3, 1977), the Hawks. His ownership of both teams has helped bring stability to the Atlanta sports scene, and his willingness to do what must be done for success has made both franchises winners, as the Braves captured their second straight National League Championship in 1992 and second consecutive appearance in the World Series, while the Hawks earned their third Central Division title under Turner's direction in 1993-94.

On June 1, 1980, Turner inaugurated CNN, the world's first live, in-depth, round-the-clock, all-news television network. A second all-news service, Headline News, began operation on January 1, 1982 offering updated newscasts every half-hour. CNN International, launched in September 1985 is the Company's global news service; CNNI is distributed in more than 210 countries and territories worldwide.

Turner's enthusiasm for sports and improved international relations led him to conceive the Goodwill Games and, in partnership with what was then the USSR, organize the quadrennial, summer, multi-sport, international competition. The inaugural Goodwill Games were held in July 1986 in Moscow, and were followed by the 1990 Games in Seattle, Washington and the 1994 Games in St. Petersburg, Russia. The 1998 Games will be held in the New York City metropolitan area.

In March 1986, TBS acquired the MGM Entertainment Company with assets including more than 3,300 feature films and the MGM theatrical motion picture and television production businesses. Later that year, TBS sold portions of MGM and formed Turner Entertainment Co. (TEC) to manage and market the remaining MGM assets consisting mostly of the library of film and television properties.

The TEC library formed the programming cornerstone of TNT, which launched on October 3, 1988. TNT provides basic-cable viewers with high-quality original productions, the finest classic films and major sporting events. A separate version of TNT is customized for Latin America and the Caribbean, with programming available in English, Spanish or Portuguese.

The Company's fifth network, SportSouth, debuted on August 29, 1990. The regional sports network features professional, collegiate and amateur events, and serves seven states in the Southeast.

In December 1991, Turner acquired the entertainment assets of Hanna-Barbera Cartoons, including their 3,000-episode library, distribution rights and production facility.

On October 1, 1992, Turner launched the Cartoon Network, the world's first 24-hour, all-animation television service showcasing the Company's extensive library of cartoons. TNT and Cartoon Network were launched in Europe on September 17, 1993, offering classic films and animation programming in six languages. TNT & Cartoon Network in Asia Pacific, launched October 6, 1994, provides programming in English, with some programs dubbed or subtitled in Mandarin and Thai.

Castle Rock Entertainment, a television and motion picture producer, joined the Company's entertainment division in December 1993. In January 1994, Turner Broadcasting merged with New Line Cinema, the leading independent producer and distributor of motion pictures, and April 1994 marked the launch of Turner Classic Movies (TCM), a 24-hour commercial-free network featuring the Company's library of film greats.

Major subsidiaries of TBS include Turner Home Entertainment, started in 1987 to service the home video, publishing, retail and product-licensing markets; Turner International, which markets the Company's programming worldwide; Turner Original Productions, which serves as a non-fiction development and production unit; Turner Pictures, one of the Company's three motion picture arms; and Turner Sports, which produces sports events and television coverage of sports for Turner's entertainment networks.

Currently, Turner is Vice Chairman and a member of the board of directors of the National Cable Television Association, and a member of the board of directors of TeleCommunications, Inc. (TCI), the Martin Luther King Center for Nonviolent Change, the Greater Yellowstone Coalition and the International Founders Council of the Smithsonian Museum of the American Indian. He is also president of the Turner Foundation, the Turner family's private grant-making organization, focusing on population and the environment.

Turner is an active environmentalist and has received numerous civic and industry awards and honors, including being named Time Magazine's 1991 Man of the Year. He is also known as a superior yachtsman, having won national and world sailing titles, including a successful defense of the 1977 America's Cup, the 1979 Fastnet Trophy and four Yachtsmen of the Year awards. He is married to actress, businesswoman Jane Fonda.

Turner was born November 19, 1938 in Cincinnati, Ohio. He attended Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island, where he was Commodore of the Yacht Club and vice president of the Debating Union.

MICHAEL GEARON
CHAIRMAN, BOARD OF DIRECTORS

What was supposed to be a two-week stay in September 1977 for Michael Gearon has developed into an active role with the Atlanta franchise. The 61-year-old Gearon continues the tasks he assumed in 1986 as the Hawks' Chairman of the Board of Directors.

In his 19th year with the club, he remains the Hawks' representative on the NBA Board of Governors, and for two seasons (1977-79), Gearon served as team president and general manager.

During his stint as general manager, he engineered the trades that brought Tom McMillen and the late Terry Furlow to Atlanta while overseeing a team that made the NBA Playoffs in each of his two seasons as GM. With the acquisition of Dan Roundfield, Gearon's efforts paid off as Roundfield earned three All-Star Game selections.

Before his association with the Hawks, Gearon built one of the top real estate development companies in the United States, Gearon and Company, which implemented and executed the concept of office parks.

Three well-known Gearon projects in the Atlanta area include Executive Park, Perimeter Center, and Coastal States, and through that association Gearon and Company became known as one of America's quality development companies.

In the early '70s, Gearon sold his interest in the development company to his partners in order to spend more time with his family and to travel. His association with Ted Turner through joint business ventures led to his accepting the position with the Hawks in 1977.

A courtside regular, and perhaps the Hawks' most ardent supporter, J. Michael Gearon is the father of three children, Tierney, Michael Jr., and Timothy. He and his wife Kin make their home in the northeast Atlanta area.

STAN KASTEN PRESIDENT, ATLANTA HAWKS

With one of sports' most-accomplished and high-level backgrounds, Stan Kasten, 43, begins his 18th season with the Atlanta Hawks. In addition to his present position as President of the Hawks, Kasten has also served as President of the Atlanta Braves and TBS Vice President for Sports Teams since 1986.

The NBA's only back-to-back Executive of the Year (1986 and 1987), Kasten began his career as legal counsel for both the Hawks and Braves in 1976, before he was named Assistant General Manager of the Hawks, a position he held for two seasons (1977-79).

In November 1979 he became the youngest General Manager in NBA annals at the age of 27, and held the position for 11 1/2 seasons, until he hired former Denver executive Pete Babcock as his replacement in February 1990. Under his direction, the Hawks made tremendous strides on the court and at the gate over the latter half of the 1980's, as the team posted four straight 50-win seasons and playoff berths, and set team records in attendance.

His aggressiveness as General Manager proved beneficial in many of his dealings with other NBA clubs, which include the acquisition and signing of Dominique Wilkins in 1982, while sending two players (John Drew and Freeman Williams) and cash to Utah, obtaining Rory Sparrow from New Jersey in 1981 for a fourth-round pick, and the rights to Antoine Carr, Cliff Levingston and two future picks from Detroit in exchange for Dan Roundfield in 1984.

In a surprising, yet beneficial move in 1984-85, Kasten engineered the move of 12 Atlanta home games to New Orleans, which resulted in more than $1 million to the franchise.

Active in international competition in his role with TBS, he was instrumental in the development of the four-city American/Soviet All-Star team tour that brought American and Soviet players together on the same team for the first time, and in the summer of 1988, the Hawks were the first NBA team to visit the U.S.S.R.

Kasten, who has served on the NBA's Marketing Committee, Player Pension Committee and Expansion Committee, is also a member of the Hawks' Board of Directors, a member of the NBA Board of Governors, and currently serves on the NBA Labor Committee. He is a former trustee of the Basketball Hall of Fame.

In addition to his responsibilities with the Braves, he has served as chairman of the Player Personal Development Committee and is currently on the Expansion Committee and the Labor Negotiating Committee. Ironically, Kasten's association with owner Ted Turner came as a result of baseball. They became acquainted at a Braves-Cardinals game in 1976 in St. Louis, when Kasten was celebrating his graduation from law school with a tour of Major League baseball parks. Months later he joined both clubs as legal counsel.

Born February 1, 1952 in Lakewood, New Jersey, Kasten attended Rutgers University before transferring to New York University (NYU) where he graduated in 1973 with a degree in psychology, earned Magna Cum Laude honors and was chosen Phi Beta Kappa. He received a Juris Doctor degree from Columbia Law School in 1976.

Stan and his wife Helen live in Sandy Springs with their four children, Alana, Corey, Sherry, and Jay. He speaks regularly to legal associations throughout the country and is on the Board of Directors of the Sports Lawyers Association.

LEE DOUGLAS EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Entering his sixth season as Executive Vice President and 17th overall with the Hawks is Lee Douglas. He directs the club's business, marketing, media and community relations, broadcasting and ticket operations departments.

Douglas was named to his present position in November 1989 by team president Stan Kasten.

Since March 1992, Douglas has also been involved with the Atlanta Braves in an advisory capacity, assisting team president Stan Kasten as a Vice President.

Instrumental in arranging Atlanta's 55-game (non-national network) television package with local Atlanta affiliate WATL-TV and Turner's regional sports station, SportSouth, he was heavily involved with the Hawks' 1995-96 marketing campaign with Atlanta ad agency Fitzgerald and Company.

In addition to those duties, he has spent time on the Board of Directors of the Atlanta Hawks Foundation since its formation eight years ago. The Foundation's responsibilities have included a yearly Benefit Dinner and Auction, a localized version of the Stay In School and the Harry the Hawk "I Like Me Because I'm Drug Free" programs.

Douglas has also served a two-year stint on the inaugural Marketing Advisory Board of NBA Properties. That Advisory Board was instrumental in forming the guidelines for team usage of trademarks in the local marketplace.

Since joining the Hawks in 1978, the 43-year-old Douglas has held positions as sales representative, director of sales, director of marketing, vice president/marketing, and vice president/assistant general manager until his most recent position.

A 1974 graduate (industrial management) of Georgia Tech, he earned his MBA in 1978 from Georgia State University.

Douglas and his wife Nancy live in Stone Mountain with their two children, Brent and Kelly. Charles Lee Douglas was born August 23, 1952 in Atlanta.

PETE BABCOCK VICE PRESIDENT, GENERAL MANAGER

One of the league's highly-respected front office individuals, Pete Babcock is in his sixth season as the Hawks' Vice President and General Manager.

Named to his current position on February 14, 1990, Babcock took over the basketball operational duties from Stan Kasten, who retained his title of team president.

The 46-year-old Babcock, who came to Atlanta from the Denver Nuggets, oversees the daily management and direction of the basketball team, including the procurement of players through trades, free agency and the collegiate draft.

In addition to his responsibilities with the Hawks, Babcock serves on the Steering Committee for Competition and Rules. He was also appointed last season to the prestigious Senior National Team Committee who selected the 1996 U.S. Olympic Men's Basketball team and coaching staff to compete in the Atlanta Olympic Games.

During his tenure, the Hawks have won one division championship and participated in 19 playoff games. After a franchise-tying 57-25 finish in 1993-94, Babcock was a runner-up for the second time in his career for the NBA Executive of the Year award.

Following six years of regional scouting for the New Orleans Jazz, the Los Angeles Lakers and the Milwaukee Bucks, Babcock was hired by the San Diego Clippers in 1980 as an assistant coach and was elevated to Director of Player Personnel two years later. In 1984, he became Vice President of Basketball Operations.

A political science major at Arizona State (graduated in 1971), he earned his masters from ASU in 1976. Instead of pursuing his political aspirations, he began coaching and teaching at the high school level in Phoenix.

Actively involved in community-related matters, Babcock has worked on substance abuse and gang-related issues, the Special Olympics and many youth-oriented programs. Among the programs he has been involved in is the Success Seminars for high school students, and male-mentoring programs for elementary school students throughout metro Atlanta.

As a result of his work, Babcock was asked to assist in writing a position paper for the White House on "Building Character Through Sport," and consulted with Vice President Al Gore on concepts and programs to reduce violence among our youth.

In 1989, he spoke before a Congressional committee on the topic of increasing the budget for the National Institute on Drug Abuse, and was honored in a White House ceremony by President Ronald Reagan for his contributions in assisting Native American youth.

During the 1992-93 season, Babcock was named Sports Personality of the Year by the Georgia Special Olympics for his on-going involvement with Special Olympics.

Peter Hartz Babcock, featured in Andy Andrews' compilation of success stories book, "Storms of Perfection," was born May 12, 1949 in Bangor, Maine. He and his wife Yo have two daughters, Amy and Katie, and they live in Marietta. His brothers are also involved in basketball operations on different levels, as Rob is the director of player personnel for the Minnesota Timberwolves, and Dave is currently the head coach at Arizona Western College.

LENNY WILKENS

HEAD COACH

For an individual who never considered coaching, or even playing in the NBA a career endeavor, Lenny Wilkens continues to eclipse the standards set before him in a dignified manner. While his contributions to the game are legendary and have extended over an incredible duration of time, he is not about to rest on those laurels. Fortunately for him the drive is still there, and with three primary goals set before him this season, the will to win is even greater.

With that in mind, the 1995-96 season brings three challenges: to win his 1,000th NBA game as a coach, to win another NBA championship, and to win the gold medal as head coach of the 1996 U.S. Olympic basketball team. Passionate about the game of basketball, he remains at the top of his craft as well as respected by his peers.

The highlight during a 42-40 season a year ago involved Wilkens' pursuit of the NBA's all-time record for coaching victories (#939), which he achieved on January 6 when the Hawks beat the Washington Bullets, and in the process Wilkens passed the legendary Arnold "Red" Auerbach's previous record of 938 wins.

Wilkens enters his 23rd season as a head coach with a career record of 968-814 (.543), and after two years with the Hawks he has posted a mark of 99-65 (.604). Despite a first-round playoff exit to Indiana, it was the 13th time in his career that a Wilkens-coached team had made it to the NBA playoffs. With his career playoff coaching record at 60-64 (.484), Wilkens' 60 wins ranks him seventh on the all-time NBA playoff wins list, and third among active coaches. He has led his teams into the playoffs in 13 of his last 17 years as a head coach.

When this season concludes, Wilkens' attention will be directed internationally, as he achieves another milestone in his career as the head coach of "Dream Team 3." Bypassed as a player for the 1960 Olympic team, he was named coach last April 24 by the USA Basketball Men's Senior National Team Committee. Wilkens earns a shot at the gold medal when Team USA competes in the Centennial Olympic Games, July 20 through August 3 in Atlanta.

No stranger to USA Basketball or the Olympics, Wilkens served as an assistant under head coach Chuck Daly on the historic 1992 USA Olympic Basketball Team (the original "Dream Team"). The '92 squad breezed to an unblemished 8-0 record to capture the Olympic gold medal.

He holds the distinction of having participated in more games (3,060 at the end of the 1994-95 season) as a player and/or head coach than anyone else in league history (when you factor in regular season, playoff and all-star games). Wilkens played in 1,150 games over his 15-year NBA career, and at the end of last season coached in 1,910 games. In reference to regular season games only, he has coached in 1,782 games, which ranks him third on the all-time list of games coached.

With the best first-year finish in Hawks history -- a franchise-tying 57-25 record in 1993-94, Wilkens earned the first of many of his post-season awards on April 25, 1994, when he was named Basketball Weekly's Coach of the Year. In addition to also receiving similar honors from The Sporting News, Basketball Digest and the 1994 Victor Award from the City of Hope/Sport Magazine, Wilkens was the recipient of the 1994 IBM/NBA Coach of the Year award for the first time in his career.

During a seven-year career in Cleveland, Wilkens guided the Cavaliers to 50 or more wins on three occasions, including a record of 54-28 (.659) in his final year (1992-93). He resigned his position as head coach on May 24, 1992, a few days after the Cavs were eliminated by the Chicago Bulls in the Eastern Conference second round playoff series.

Under Wilkens, the Cavs recorded one of the greatest resurgences in NBA history. He took a franchise that won 29 games in 1985-86 and transformed it into a veteran team with three All-

Stars that posted 50+ wins in three of his last five seasons, including franchise records of 57 wins in 1988-89 and 1991-92. In addition, Cleveland qualified for the playoffs in five of his last six seasons, while ascending to the 1992 Eastern Conference Finals.

The 1992-93 campaign was one of chart-climbing for Wilkens, who on March 26 at Philadelphia became the winningest coach in Cleveland history, as he notched win 305 to surpass Bill Fitch (Wilkens concluded his seven years there with a 316-258 (.551) record).

He joined the Cavaliers in June 1986, becoming the 10th coach in the history of the franchise, after serving as the General Manager of the Seattle SuperSonics during the 1985-86 season. He also served as a player-coach for five seasons (1969-76).

In addition to serving as head coach of four NBA All-Star Games (most recently Eastern Conference coach in the 1994 All-Star Game in Minneapolis, where he evened his coaching record at 2-2), Wilkens received his most memorable honor on May 9, 1990 when he was enshrined in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts.

He previously served as a player-coach for Seattle in 1969-72, and for the Portland Trail Blazers from 1974-75. He returned to Seattle as head coach midway through the 1977-78 season, and remained as the head coach through the 1984-85 campaign before moving to the front office as general manager.

The Sonics made the playoffs in six of the last eight seasons under Wilkens. They advanced to the World Championship series in 1978 and won the NBA Championship in 1979, with a 4-1 series victory over the Washington Bullets.

Wilkens enjoyed a 15-year playing career in the NBA, and he ranks among the all-time leaders in assists, games played, and free throws made. He was named Most Valuable Player of the 1971 All-Star Game in San Diego.

A first-round choice in the 1960 Draft, Wilkens spent his first eight NBA season as a member of the St. Louis Hawks. In 1968, Wilkens was traded to Seattle (for Walt Hazzard), where he spent the next four seasons. Then in 1972, he became a member of the Cavs when he was acquired along with Barry Clemens in exchange for Butch Beard. Wilkens represented the Cavaliers in the 1973 All-Star Game, in a season when he averaged 20.5 points and 8.4 assists per game. He concluded his playing career with the Trail Blazers in the 1974-75 season as a player-coach.

Wilkens played his college ball at Providence College, where he led his freshman team to a 23-0 record. In his junior year, the Friars lost in the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament, while in his senior season (1959-60), Providence reached the NIT finals before losing to Bradley. He was named the tourney's MVP and was a first-team selection to two All-America teams. Wilkens was named the Outstanding Player in the New England area in 1960, and in 1961 he was named to the Rhode Island Heritage Hall of Fame. He graduated from Providence College with a degree in economics, and in 1988 received an honorary doctorate in humanities from his alma mater. In 1995, he was awarded a similar degree from Seattle University.

In March 1988, he was selected to the NIT-NIKE Hall of Fame, joining such basketball legends as George Mikan, Tom Gola, Walt Frazier, Ernie Calverly, Maurice Stokes, Ed Macauley, and Larry Bird. He has also been elected to the New York City Basketball Hall of Fame and the Brooklyn (NY) Hall of Fame.

In 1979, Wilkens recieved several awards. He was named the City of Hope Sportsman of the Year, the Congressional Black Caucus Coach of the Year, the CBS Coach of the Year and the Black Publisher of America Coach of the Year. In 1980, he received the Urban League-Whitney Young Outstanding Citizen Award and was awarded a Doctorate of Humanities degree from Providence.

A former vice president of the NBA Players Association (1961-69), Wilkens is currently the president of the NBA Coaches Association.

Active in many community-related functions, Wilkens has donated his time and services to the following groups: the Odessa Brown Children's Clinic in Seattle, the Seattle Community College, Shoes for Kids in Cleveland, the Arthur Ashe Foundation, the March of Dimes, the Make-A-Wish Foundation, the Georgia Center for Children, and the Atlanta Hawks Foundation.

BASKETBALL STAFF

In August 1994, he joined several NBA executives and players on a week-long trip to South Africa, where they conducted clinics and workshops with young people and coaches from the Capetown and Johannesburg areas. Additionally, he is the honorary chairman for the Make-A-Wish Foundation Ball taking place in March, 1996.

Leonard Randolph Wilkens was born October 28, 1937 in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, New York. He served in the Army Quartermaster Corps as a Second Lieutenant from May 1961 to November 1962. Lenny and his wife Marilyn have three children (Leesha, Randy and Jamee), and one grandchild (Ashley), and during the season they reside in Atlanta.

Lenny's Thoughts After Win #939:

(January 6, 1995)

"There's a lot of satisfaction and a lot of relief."

"I lit the cigar as a tribute to Red...because I have such tremendous respect for him."

-Which was the bigger accomplishment, winning an NBA championship or this record?

"Breaking the coach's record. The Celtics were a great, dominating team. No other team ever had a run like they did and no team ever will. There are a lot of us who have won championships. But there is only one guy in first place. So that is much more meaningful. Myself and many of the other coaches thought that his record would last forever. But I guess you never say never. This is huge. I've gotten cards, letters, telegrams from all over the world and it's been tremendous."

"The secret of my longevity is a number of things. Being able to motivate, to develop talent...so that we can go out on the floor and compete. And the ability to communicate with players no matter what era we're in. I think I understand the players and what they're going through and they know what to expect from me. Respect is a two-way street. If you want it, you have to give it. My players always know what the parameters are all the time - what they are responsible for. And we go from there."

DICK HELMASSISTANT COACH

Beginning his third year in Atlanta and his 11th with Head Coach Lenny Wilkens, is assistant coach Dick Helm. Helm has previously spent time as an assistant with Wilkens on both the Cleveland Cavaliers' (seven years) and the Seattle SuperSonics' (one year) coaching staffs.

Helm brings over 30 years of basketball experience to the Hawks' bench and understands the game from both a playing and instructional perspective.

A graduate of Illinois' Wheaton College in 1955, Helm served as class president while gathering honors in basketball, football and track. A member of Wheaton's "Hall of Honor," he always played on a winning team for the Crusaders.

Following graduation, Helm earned a master's degree in administration of education and physical education from Michigan State University before serving a two-year stint in the U.S. Army at Fort Bragg, NC. His coaching career began at Wheaton's Central High School. After 14 successful years as both a high school coach and administrator, Helm entered the collegiate ranks to serve as head basketball coach and athletic director for the Judson College Eagles in Elgin, IL.

After three years at Judson, Helm returned to Wheaton College as head basketball coach for an eight-year stint, 20 years following his graduation. During the 1983-84 season, he served as assistant basketball coach for North Central College in Naperville, Illinois, helping the Cardinals to their first-ever NCAA Division III tournament appearance while at the same time scouting for the Seattle SuperSonics. To recognize his contribution to the sport of basketball in Illinois, Helm was named to the Illinois Basketball Hall of Fame in April 1988. During the fall of 1992, he was elected to the Tuscola, Illinois High School Hall of Fame for athletics.

In the summers of 1990 and 1991, he was enlisted to make a tour of Western Australia as he conducted coaching clinics and shared his basketball expertise with the Perth Wildcats and other State League basketball teams. After his initial visit, the Perth Wildcats went on to win the Australian National Basketball title in the 1990-91 and 1991-92 seasons.

Helm has written columns for Letterman Magazine and the National Association of Basketball coaches Journal. He is an active member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (F.C.A.) and has served as a speaker for the National Football League and Major League Baseball Chapels. In May 1990 Helm was honored by the F.C.A. as the 1990 Ohio Sportsman of the Year.

HOW STACEY BECAME A HAWK: Augmon was selected with the ninth pick in the first round of the 1991 NBA Draft, after the Hawks acquired the pick from the L.A. Clippers June 26 in a trade for Glenn "Doc" Rivers.

LAST SEASON (1994-95): After setting career highs in several areas the year before, Augmon's numbers dipped a bit last season as he scored 13.9 points and converted only .453 of his field goal attempts (career-low) ... His scoring average was the third-highest on the club ... He began the season on fire, pacing Atlanta with a 20.2 point average in November, but his totals slipped over the next three months before a 15.3 ppg showing in March ... Breaking it down further, he averaged 19.5 points over his first 18 games and 12.1 points over the final 58 ... His scoring totals and shooting averages were much better at home than on the road ... He averaged 15.2 ppg at The Omni and 12.5 away from Atlanta, and converted .474 of his home FG attempts and only .429 on the road ... Augmon's 36 points against Portland (1-3) was a career high, and he equalled his career-best in rebounds (12) against Detroit (3-3) ... In addition to finishing third on the team in scoring, he ranked fourth in rebounding (4.8 rpg), third in offensive boards (157 total, 2.1 rpg), second in FT's made and attempted (252-346), third in steals (100), and second in blocked shots (47) ... Led Hawks in scoring 10 times, including four of the Hawks' first 10 games of the season ... Scored 20 or more points 16 times, and 10 or more 57 times ... In addition, he has scored 20 points or more 67 times over his career ... His 464 career steals rank 10th on the Hawks all-time list, and his 667 offensive rebounds are 11th-best ... CAREER HIGHS: 36 pts v/Port (1-3-95), 12 rebs (2x), 14 FGM v/GSt (3-23-92), 13 FTM v/Chi (4-17-92), 50 mins v/Det (11-5-94) ... 1993-94: Posted career highs in scoring average (14.8 ppg) and points scored (1,212), minutes (2,605), free throws made (333), attempted (436) and percentage (.764), steals (149), and blocks (45) ... 1992-93: Despite increases in scoring average (from 13.3 points to 14.0) and his field goal percentage (from .489 to .501), Augmon had an up-and-down sophomore season ... After playing in all 82 games as a rookie, he saw action in 73 (66 starts), missing the first four games of the season after undergoing arthroscopic surgery to his left knee during the latter part of the pre-season ... He returned to record his best month of the year (in November) scoring-wise with a 17.5 average ... Scored a season-high 27 points at Indiana on December 4 ... THE HISTORY OF THE ATLANTA HAWKS

From Milwaukee, to St. Louis, to Atlanta.

It was a setting made for Mark Twain. A banjo box gymnasium called Wharton Field House seating 6,000 on hardwood benches in a city, or should we say three cities, straddling the Mississippi River is where the Atlanta Hawks have their roots.

They were known as the Tri-City Blackhawks, one of the original members of the National Basketball Association after a mid-summer merger in 1949 of the 12-year-old National Basketball League and the four-year-old Basketball Association of America formed the new league.

The Illinois cities of Moline and Rock Island and Davenport, Iowa across the river formed the formal name of the neophyte Blackhawks, coached by Roger Potter.

In the opening game at Wharton Field House, the Blackhawks beat the old Denver Nuggets, 93-85. But after a string of six losses, Potter became the first former coach of the franchise, as he was replaced by Red Auerbach.

The first edition of the Blackhawks made the playoffs, despite being six games under .500, but dropped out in the first round to the Anderson Duffey Packers. Then the coach, better known as Red Auerbach, left for Boston and many green-and-white World Championship banners.

After two years and a grammatical change to Tri-Cities, the Blackhawks packed their bags and moved to Milwaukee. They shortened the nickname to the Hawks and struggled for four years, never winning more than 27 games and finishing last each season. But it was in Milwaukee where the Hawks made a draft choice that would solidify the franchise for years to come.

His name was Bob Pettit. A first-round draft choice from Louisiana State in 1954, Pettit played his entire 11-year career with the Hawks, moving with the club to St. Louis in 1955. He wrote nearly every record in the Hawks' record book and was a four-time MVP of the annual NBA All-Star game, more times than any other player in history.

From 1957 through 1961, the Hawks won five consecutive Western Conference titles. Pettit was the star of the show and had an excellent supporting cast with Cliff Hagan, Slater Martin, Charley Share and Ed Macauley.

In 1958, the Hawks captured their lone World Championship by defeating Boston, four games to two. On three other occasions during the five-year stretch, the Hawks advanced to the finals only to lose to the Celtics each time.

For no apparent reason, the Hawks turned sour during the 1961-62 season and had it not been for the expansion of the Chicago Packers, the club would have gone from first to last in just one year. It was the only spring the Hawks failed to qualify for the playoffs in the 13 seasons they spent in St. Louis.

Fortunately for the franchise, Harry Gallatin, the former All-Pro with the New York Knickerbockers, took over the reins the following season and guided the Hawks to a second-place finish and back into the playoffs. For his efforts, Gallatin became the first recipient of the NBA's Coach of the Year award.

But Gallatin couldn't put the Hawks back on top and was replaced in the middle of the 1964-65 season by Richie Guerin, another Knick standout. The club again made the playoffs but was upset in the opening round by the Baltimore Bullets, a team which finished under .500 and eight games behind the Hawks during the regular season.

After the playoff loss, Pettit took off his uniform for the last time. He wound up his career with a 26.4 scoring average topped by a 31.1 mark during the disappointing '61-'62 campaign. His rebounding standards were even more incredible, a career average of 16.2, and a single-season high of 20.3 set during the 1960-61 season. He was named first-team All-Pro in his first ten seasons in the league, and second-team in his 11th and final season. In 1970, Pettit was enshrined in the Basketball Hall of Fame, and his uniform #9 has been retired.

The Hawks were becoming a young team as was characterized by the early Pettit-led teams. A year later, Hagan was gone, representing the last remaining link to the '58 Championship team.

In their places were Lou Hudson, the number one pick in 1966, Zelmo Beaty, Joe Caldwell, Lenny Wilkens and Bill Bridges. By 1968, the Hawks added another Western Conference title with a record of 56-26 — at that time the best in the team's history — and Guerin became the Hawks' second Coach of the Year.

Then came the shocker.

During the broadcast of an Atlanta Braves baseball game, announcer Milo Hamilton told Atlanta fans the city was going to have a professional basketball team. It was, of course, the Hawks, a perennial NBA powerhouse, moving from St. Louis to Atlanta.

Bringing the team to the South were two of Atlanta's and Georgia's most respected gentlemen, businessman Thomas G. Cousins and former governor Carl E. Sanders. They acquired the club from Ben Kerner.

Skeptics viewed the move as one of disaster since Atlanta had no facility for professional basketball and noted that the area was a hotbed for football, and there was not room for both sports.

It goes without saying that they were wrong on both counts.

The Hawks received permission to play their games in Alexander Memorial Coliseum on the Georgia Tech campus until a new arena could be constructed. Five years later that realization came true when The Omni was completed.

Under Guerin, the Hawks were sensational the first two years in Atlanta. They won the Western Conference title again in 1970 and advanced to the conference finals both seasons before losing to the star-studded Los Angeles Lakers.

With the emergence of the American Basketball Association came the fall of the Hawks. The new league raided the NBA teams, offering big money to the NBA stars in order to build credibility. Beaty was the first to jump in 1969, and Caldwell followed a year later.

Though the Hawks drafted Pete Maravich, the college scoring champion from Louisiana State, in 1970, the team struggled into the playoffs the next two seasons. The club finished ten games under .500 each year and couldn't get past the first round of the playoffs.

For the 1972-73 season, the Hawks moved into The Omni, then a 16,500-seat structure, with a new coach, Cotton Fitzsimmons. Behind the 27.1 scoring average of Hudson, the Hawks responded to the new surroundings by reversing the record of the previous year.

The next year, however, the Hawks failed to make a playoff appearance for the first time in 12 seasons, and second in 19. Only another expansion team, this time the New Orleans Jazz, kept the club from plummeting into last place. The first move to rectify the situation was to trade Maravich to New Orleans for a slew of draft choices.

Owning the first and third selections in the 1975 NBA College Draft, the Hawks chose David Thompson from North Carolina State and Marvin Webster from Morgan State. The NBA-ABA bidding war was at its peak and both players opted for the Denver Nuggets of the rival league.

Disaster soon followed.

The team lost 51 games, the most in thirteen years, and tumbled into last place for the first time since the team left Milwaukee. Fitzsimmons lost his job eight games from the end (1975-76).

The bright spot on the club was the emergence of John Drew, a second-round pick in 1974, as one of the premier offensive players in the league. Drew, who was Basketball Weekly's Rookie of the Year for 1974-75 while leading the league in offensive rebounds, averaged 21.4 points per game in his second season.

Rumors abounded that a move was imminent, and that a new owner was soon to purchase the team; but Hubie Brown, who coached the Kentucky Colonels to the 1975 NBA Championship, took over the team and promptly began to change the team's image. Midway through the 1976-77 season (January '77), half of the rumor became reality as R.E. "Ted" Turner, owner of the Braves and WTCG-TV, bought the club but stated the team would remain in Atlanta.

Hudson, an 11-year veteran of 730 NBA games, all in a Hawks uniform, was traded to Los Angeles (Lakers) as a youth movement was instituted. The #23 worn by Hudson was retired on the Lakers' first visit to the Omni, marking the second Hawks number to be retired. The two men so honored to that point, Pettit and Hudson, shared the Atlanta record for the most points scored in one game: 57.

Brown's first team suffered through a difficult initial year ('76-'77) by finishing in sixth place in their division with a 31-51 record. The team made a dramatic turnaround just one year later (1977-78), becoming the Cinderella team of the NBA, by advancing to the playoffs for the first time in five years. Brown was named NBA Coach of the Year as the fans became "Hubie's Sixth Man." In addition to Brown's coaching, Atlanta's move forward was sparked by two rookies who would have an impact in the team's history for years to come.

Seven-foot-two center Wayne "Tree" Rollins was selected by the Hawks in the first round of the NBA draft to secure the middle for the team. The Hawks' other impact pick was 6-2 guard Eddie Johnson. These two additions, along with a proven veteran like Drew, would comprise the nucleus of the team.

The Hawks were again playoff participants in 1978-79, but it was just a building block for the following season. Atlanta added forward Dan Roundfield that season and his play, along with the other players, brought the Central Division title to Atlanta in 1979-80. The squad finished with a 50-32 mark, and a first-place finish for the first time in nine years, and three players, Drew, Johnson and Roundfield, participated in the 1980 NBA All-Star game.

After just one season at the top, the Hawks fell 20 games under the .500 mark (1980-81), finishing 31-51 and out of the playoffs for the first time in four years.

Atlanta replaced Brown as coach with former New York/New Jersey Nets coach Kevin Loughery, and he led the Hawks back to the playoffs during both of his seasons in Atlanta (1981-82 and 1982-83) before leaving the team following his final year for another coaching position.

The Hawks' biggest move during Loughery's tenure was made off the court on September 3, 1982. The team traded players John Drew and Freeman Williams plus cash to the Utah Jazz in exchange for Dominique Wilkins, who they had selected that year in the NBA draft. Wilkins, a former All-American player at the University of Georgia, was a unanimous choice to the NBA All-Rookie first team in his rookie season, which was a preview of coming attractions.

Former Hawks assistant Michael Fratello was named to succeed Loughery as the Atlanta franchise's fifth head coach, and he promptly led the Hawks to their third consecutive playoff appearance in 1983-84.

Seeking to change their fortunes and join the NBA elite teams, Atlanta implemented their second youth movement. The Hawks introduced a three-year rebuilding plan in 1984-85 that would hopefully bring the team closer to a championship.

The movement started with the Hawks dealing Roundfield to the Detroit Pistons for forwards Cliff Levingston and Antoine Carr and two future draft pics. Roundfield concluded his six-year career with three All-Star seasons and a 17.6 points-per-game average. In addition to acquiring the youthful forwards, Atlanta drafted another big man in 7-0 center Kevin Willis of Michigan State. Willis' size and speed for an inside player would give the Hawks added depth in the frontcourt. The task of rebuilding was a long and difficult process for Fratello and the Hawks that season as the club finished 34-48 and out of the playoffs for only the second time in eight years.

As a result of missing the playoffs, there was some consolation as the team prepared for the '85-'86 season. The Hawks were allowed to participate in the NBA's first draft lottery (where the seven teams not making the playoffs were allowed to draw for the top seven picks in the 1985 draft), and with the fifth selection, Atlanta grabbed another seven-footer, SMU's Jon Koncak.

One of Atlanta's interesting free agent signings that season was 5-7 guard Anthony "Spud" Webb from N.C. State. A diminutive athlete who defied the odds of making an NBA roster, Webb electrified fans throughout the league with his speed and incredible jumping ability (42 inches). That talent was showcased at the 1986 NBA All-Star Weekend, as Webb defeated his teammate and defending champion Wilkins in the '86 Slam Dunk contest.

Despite the loss of his "crown," Wilkins became the first Atlanta player to lead the NBA in scoring after averaging 30.3 points in '85-'86. He was also honored with his first appearance in the NBA All-Star game, and he was also named to the first-team All-NBA squad.

As a team, the Hawks tied franchise marks for most wins in a season (50) and best home record (34-7), and their 50-32 record, which was second in the Central Division, was the league's biggest turnaround (+16 games) from the previous campaign. For his efforts, Fratello was named Haggard/NBA Coach of the Year.

With the high expectations of the 1986-87 season awaiting them, the Hawks provided another year of outstanding play. A franchise record 57 wins capped an extraordinary season that saw Atlanta win the Central Division title. With the third-best record in the NBA, the Hawks established themselves among the league's elite teams, and with the combination of talent and athletic ability, they became one of the NBA's most popular teams. Wilkins finished second among the league's leaders in scoring with a 29.0 average, and was voted an All-Star starter for the first time in his career (his second appearance overall).

Several individual records were also established as Glenn "Doc" Rivers broke Atlanta's single-season assist record with 823, which also ranked him fourth in the NBA (10.0 average). Rollins moved into second place on the NBA's all-time blocked shots list, and Mike McGee set an all-time team mark for three-point goals (86) and attempts (229). The team made the playoffs for the second straight season and defeated Indiana in the first round, but faltered in the second round and lost to the Detroit Pistons.

The following season ('87-'88), the Hawks were replaced as division champs by Detroit, as Atlanta concluded the season four games out of first place with a 50-32 record. Highlighting the year's achievements was the first appearance by a Hawks coach in the annual NBA All-Star game, as Mike Fratello earned the spot after Atlanta placed the best record in the Eastern Conference over the first half of the season. Joining Fratello on the victorious East squad were Wilkins and Rivers, who scored 29 and nine points respectively.

An exciting seven-game second-round playoff series against Boston ended the Hawks' quest for a possible championship series berth, but Atlanta followers, who during the season set new attendance records in The Omni, anxiously awaited the start of the 1988-89 year as the Hawks made two off-season acquisitions to challenge for the NBA championship.

With the addition of Moses Malone and Reggie Theus, many prognosticators around the country believed the Hawks would pose a serious threat for the club's second NBA title, but that was prior to the monumental loss of Willis, who would miss all 82 games with a fracture in his left foot. Despite the absence of the seven-foot forward, Atlanta ended the season with its fourth straight 50-win campaign (which at that time was the longest current streak in the Eastern Conference.)

But what most will remember about the Hawks' '88-'89 season is the disappointing end to their title dreams, as the Milwaukee Bucks, who were beaten in all six regular season meetings with Atlanta, upset the Hawks in the first round of the NBA playoffs, three games to two.

The Hawks continued to struggle in 1989-90 as injuries plagued the team over much of the season, forcing them to miss the playoffs for the first time in five years. With a 41-41 record, Atlanta dropped to sixth place in the Central Division.

As a result, Michael Fratello resigned as head coach on April 23, 1990 and was replaced on May 22 by former NBA player and San Antonio Head Coach Bob Weiss.

On the strength of a 22-game home winning streak, Atlanta returned to the playoffs and pushed the two-time defending champion Detroit Pistons to five games before the curtains fell on the 1990-91 season.

Weiss' coaching approach wasn't lost on Hawks fans, as well as the rest of the league, and was certainly evident in December when he was named Digital/NBA Coach of the Month as Atlanta streaked to an 11-3 record.

The season also brought improved play from Wilkins, who soared to his sixth NBA All-Star Game appearance in addition to Player of the Week (in January) and Month (in February) honors. While leading the team in scoring for the eighth straight season, he led the team for the first time in rebounding, and finished third in assists.

Unfortunately for the Hawks, January 28, 1992 was the telling blow of the 1991-92 season. Prior to that evening's game against Philadelphia, Wilkins was selected as a reserve for the Eastern Conference All-Star Game and was looking forward to the opportunity to become the 17th player in league history to reach the 20,000-point level. In the second quarter (with 5:32 remaining), the 6-8 forward, whose 28.1 scoring average trailed only Chicago's Michael Jordan, suffered a ruptured right achilles tendon injury which forced him to miss the remainder of the season.

At the time, Atlanta's record was 22-20. Without their veteran, the Hawks finished 16-24 and surprisingly, only one game away from making the 1992 NBA Playoffs. It came down to the final regular season game of the season, and if not for a 112-108 loss at Cleveland, Weiss' squad would have capped off an injury-filled campaign by earning an opening round playoff berth against Chicago.

Not only were the Hawks without the services of Wilkins for the final 40 games, but the outside shooting of Travis Mays was absent for 80 games after he suffered tendon problems in his right ankle after the second game of the year.

While deserving of an All-Star position prior to replacing his fallen teammate, center Kevin Willis' production was worthy of praise. After years of unfulfilled expectations, he led Atlanta in scoring (18.3), rebounding (15.5) and minutes played (2,962). His work on the boards (which also placed him second in the NBA) enabled him to become Atlanta's all-time season rebounding leader (1,258), and his 33 rebounds against Washington was an Atlanta game record.

The 1992-93 season saw the previous season's goal attained: the Hawks finished 43-39 and met the Chicago Bulls in the first round of the playoffs. An appearance in the playoffs had alternately seemed likely and impossible throughout this tumultuous season. To begin the season, Wilkins returned to the court after his career-threatening achilles injury to score his 20,000th point and become only the 17th NBA player to do so. Atlanta gained a true point guard from the New Jersey Nets as Rumeal Robinson was traded away for Nets guard Mookie Blaylock. Blaylock provided the leadership and ball distribution that the Hawks so desperately needed, and the season showed potential.

Although the first half of the season was spent in the depths of mediocrity, there were some bright spots. On February 2, Wilkins scored 31 points against Seattle to become the franchise's all-time leading scorer by breaking Bob Pettit's long-standing record of 20,880. Also in February, Wilkins made his eighth appearance on the Eastern Conference's All-Star Team. In March the team went 12-3 and Weiss was named NBA Coach of the Month. But that's where the team faltered. Unable to match their March efforts, the Hawks finished April with a 5-7 record and a number seven ranking for the playoffs. Slated to face the Bulls in the first round, the games went quickly, with Chicago sweeping the Hawks in three enroute to their third-straight NBA title.

Immediately after the season, the Hawks announced that Weiss would not have his contract extended. The search for a new coach began in April and ended on June 1, when former Cleveland Cavaliers Head Coach Lenny Wilkens rejoined the franchise. Wilkens, who spent eight years with the Hawks in St. Louis and enters the 1993-94 season 69 victories behind Arnold "Red" Auerbach's league-record total of 938 career coaching wins, brought longtime assistant coaches Dick Helm and Brian Winters with him in the move to Atlanta and began to look at the talent he was handed. With the draft at hand and a #15 first-round pick, Wilkens' options were not too plentiful. However, Wilkens and his braintrust selected Florida State's Doug Edwards, a 6-7 forward known for his defense and passing, a perfect complement to the Hawks' squad.

While it was believed Wilkens and his staff would improve the Hawks fortunes, no one imagined the results would be so immediate. The 1993-94 season brought the franchise's third Central Division championship, a 57-25 record (the best in the Eastern Conference), and the first IBM/NBA Coach of the Year award for Wilkens, who also earned his fourth All-Star coaching assignment by leading the Eastern Conference All-Stars during the 1994 Game in Minneapolis.

In addition to equalling the team record for wins in a season, the Hawks set a new Atlanta record for most home victories in a year with 36 and finished one win shy (with 21) of tying the team record for road triumphs.

The Hawks also established additional new team standards defensively (FG percentage allowed and opponents' scoring average), as Wilkens emphasized that fact repeatedly during the season. Individually, that effort led Blaylock, who finished third in the NBA in steals, to a first team all-Defensive honor, becoming the first Hawks player to earn that distinction since Wayne "Tree" Rollins did in 1983-84.

Blaylock's season was also highlighted by his first appearance in the NBA All-Star Game, joining fellow teammate Wilkins and the Hawks coaching staff on the Eastern Conference squad. For Wilkins however, his All-Star showing would be his last in an Atlanta uniform, when on February 24, the Hawks traded their future Hall-of-Famer and a number one draft pick to the Los Angeles Clippers for Danny Manning, ending a spectacular 12-year career in Hot-lanta. Wilkins, who began the 1994-95 season in Boston, concluded his days in Atlanta as the franchise leader in numerous categories including games played (882), minutes played (32,542), steals (1,245), points scored (23,292) and scoring average (26.4).

Unfortunately for the Hawks, not only did they lose their most prolific scorer ever in Wilkins, but at season's end they were also without the services of Manning, who (as an unrestricted free agent) elected to take a contract offer from the Phoenix Suns.

The 1994-95 season began with a bang, as two games into the season the Hawks traded Kevin Willis, who ranks among Hawks all-time leaders in every rebounding category. In exchange for Willis and a future first-round pick, Atlanta received Steve Smith and Grant Long from the Miami Heat, who will help form the cornerstone for the future of the franchise.

Adjusting to the change in team chemistry didn't come easily. The Hawks came out of the gates slowly for the second consecutive year, before eventually recovering to the .500 mark (30-30) on March 10.

The highlight of the season was Lenny Wilkens' pursuit of Red Auerbach's all-time NBA wins mark of 939. Going into the season needing 12 wins to tie the mark, the Hawks gave him win number 938 on December 29 against the San Antonio Spurs, 127-121 in overtime.

After trying unsuccessfully three times to deliver the record breaking win, the stage was set for a home game against the Washington Bullets on January 6. Behind 23 points from Ken Norman, Atlanta pulled away early, eventually winning 112-90. Before the following home game (the next night against New Jersey), NBA commissioner David Stern was on hand to participate in the celebration commemorating the record.

Riding the momentum gathered by the excitement surrounding the record, the Hawks came to life. After the mid-season break, they went 22-14, including 11-4 at The Omni, where they were just 13-13 before the break.

Going into the playoffs, Atlanta was playing their best ball of the season, getting solid contributions all around. Mookie Blaylock and Smith had become one of the most formidable backcourt tandems in the league, while Andrew Lang was playing the best and most consistent basketball of his pro career.

Unfortunately for the Hawks, their first round opponent was the Central Division champion (and Atlanta arch-rival) Indiana Pacers, a tough, veteran club as well. After the Pacers put the Hawks out of the playoffs the previous year, Atlanta was hoping to return the favor. However, the Pacers were on top of their game and swept the Hawks, 3-0.

Going into the 1995-96 season, the Hawks hope to return to the upper echelon of the Eastern Conference as their nucleus continues to grow stronger with experience. Atlanta could have the right mix to contend again immediately.

OMNI

BASKETBALL CAPACITY: 16,378

The Omni opened its doors for the first time in October of 1972. Since then an eclectic blend of events including professional and collegiate basketball, family shows, the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus, wrestling, motor sports, tennis, concerts, and many more have attracted more than 30 million patrons through The Omni gates. The seating capacity for The Omni is 16,378.

Over the years, The Omni has been proud to host a number of prestigious events, including the 1988 Democratic National Convention, the 1980 U.S. Figure Skating Champions, the 1977 NCAA Final Four Tournament, the ACC Tournament, the SEC Tournament, the 1984 Davis Cup semifinals vs. Argentina, and the 1993 NCAA Women's Final Four. Next summer, the Omni will be the home of Olympic volleyball during the 1996 Summer Games.

Constructed at a cost of $17 million in private funding, The Omni was built and operates without tax subsidies. Turner Broadcasting System has a long-term lease to manage the facility.

The Omni is on a 9.5 acre site. It is 362 feet square, 130 feet high equivalent to a 12-story building. It contains 337,000 square feet equivalent to approximately 7.5 acres.

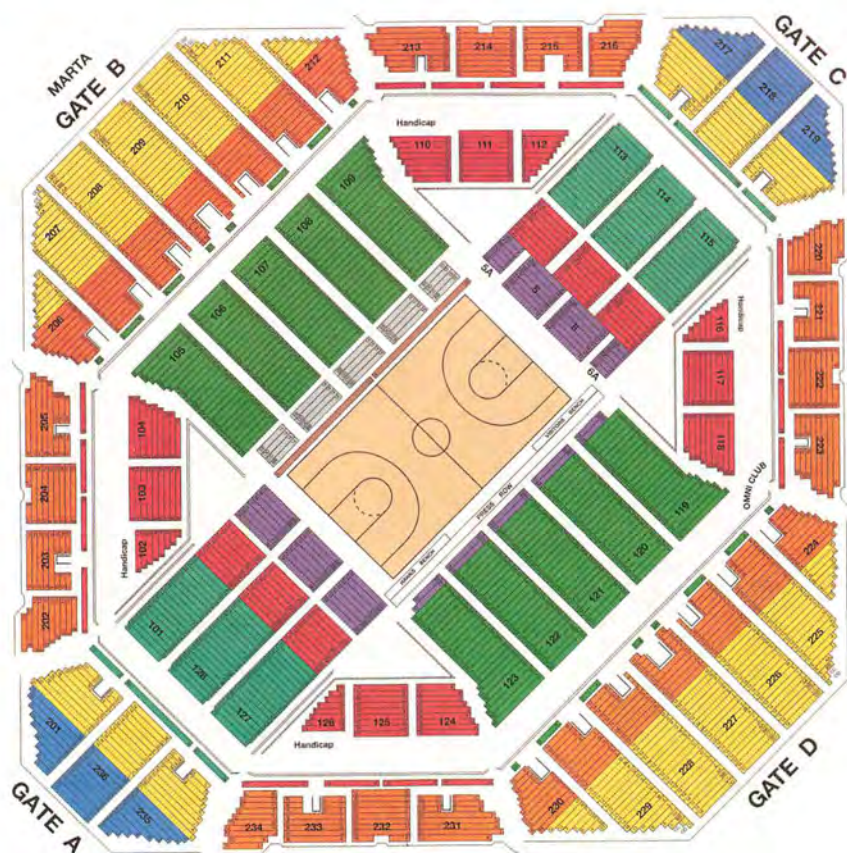

The concrete floor on which the basketball court is placed houses 55,000 linear feet (10.5 miles) of refrigerant piping to freeze the floor for ice skating events such as Disney On Ice and The Olympic and World Figure Skating Champions.

The unique roof structure is called an "Ortho-Quad-Truss," and consists of 25 "pods," providing a column-free span of 360 feet in both directions.

In the fall of 1979, Hawks and Omni patrons were treated to a new, state-of-the-art public address/music sound system. The concert-quality system consists of four "directional" clusters with a total of 16 bass horns, 32 mid-range horns, and 12 high-range horns.

Other Omni fan-enhancement additions include the two colorized Applause Meters/Matrix Boards and expanded center-hung scoreboard which informs patrons of individual players' points and foul totals.
